TENSE SITUATION GROWS IN JAPAN

TOKYO POLICE REFUSE TO ACT IN DEMONSTRATIONS

JAP RIOTERS STOP BALL VENGENCE THREATENED

American Embassy Officials Warned to Keep Automobiles Off Streets.—Paris Sees Trouble for Us Lying in the Offing.

Tokyo.—Sensational, anti-American demonstrations broke up a fashionable dance at the Imperial hotel which was attended by 500 persons. Carrying huge placards and displaying drawn swords, fifty Japanese youths strode into the hall as the dancers were awaiting the first dance after dinner. "Dance, you Americans, while we are unhappy," read one placard, while another said: "Rejoice while your congress and president mistreat us. Vengence shall be ours." One fellow flung aside his kimona and onlookers feared he was about to commit hara-kari, the women fleeing the scene.

Finally, after all of the American women had departed, the demonstrators permitted themselves to be led from the hall by volunteer Japanese after Manager T. Inamaru announced the dance had been called off and apologized for the incident, saying the police had been informed.

Police refused to move toward apprehending and punishing the demonstrators who stopped the dance, claiming that the report that the rioters threatened the foreigners present were incorrect.

One official said: "The protest staged was against a certain Japanese element that refuses to see the gravity of the situation and continues laughing, dancing and otherwise making merry while the very foundations of the empire are at stake. It is true that some Americans were annoyed but that cannot be helped. Americans living in Tokyo must recognize the situation from our viewpoint. The American-Japanese exclusion law is the greatest proof that Japan must depend upon her own civilization for existance."

Viscount Kato who is mentioned for premier after the fall of the Kiyoura cabinet, and former Premier Takashi sent floral wreaths to the funeral of the unidentified Japanese that committed hari-kari last week in protest to the exclusion act.

The situation has grown so tense that American officials have been warned to keep automobiles carrying embassy licenses off the streets.

Paris.—The newspaper San Fil published an article bearing upon the French attitude toward what it claims to be the inevitable war between United States and Japan. Ascribing its facts to a "well-informed source," the article says in part:

"The Tokyo government will not now dare to embark in a conflict, but it is preparing and the day hostilities begin there will be no more parties in Japan. The nation has become a solid bloc, hoping to have the world's sympathy because of the patience it has shown."

The paper in closing says: "It is not by closing the doors that the United States will solve the problem. Closed doors in the Pacific—the day is coming when Japan will smash them as they have done to others. Washington should moderate its foreign policy."

MORE JAPANESE KILL SELVES IN PROTEST ON EXCLUSION

Tokyo.—One after another Japanese are killing themselves in various parts of the country because of the exclusion clause in the American immigration bill. Six have committed suicide by hanging, drowning or the historic hara-kari, leaving letters protesting against the measure. The Japanese regard their exclusion from the United States as a personal affront to each individual.

When a Japanese is insulted his highest retaliation is to commit suiside. He says you have insulted me, and I cannot live in the same world with you. I will not kill you, for that would make me as low as you. I will go to my forefathers." Suicide follows.

Gold Star to Shine

New York.—A giant illuminated gold star, blazing forever at Broadway and Fifth avenue, will honor the dead soldiers of the World war. The star, electrically illuminated, is mounted upon a staff 120 feet high. The current was turned on June 7, with impressive ceremonies. The "eternal light," that will honor New York's overseas heroes, was the gift of Rodman Wanamaker.

CONGRESS QUITS; MANY BILLS LOST

LAST HOUR OF SESSION MARKED BY TURBULANCE

IMPORTANT MEASURES ARE PERMITTED TO DIE

Soldier Bonus Appropriation, Reclamation and Other Acts Fail.—Navy Reconditioning Lost; Farm Relief is Prevented.

Washington.—Congress adjourned sine die amid unusual turbulence. Unless called in special session it will not meet again until next December.

The important deficiency bill, providing money for first-year payments and administration of the soldier bonus, reclamation, and other urgent expenditures of the government died without action as did the naval reconditioning bill.

The senate adjourned promptly, but the house remained in session long enough to permit Speaker Gillett to sign last-minute bills, by the expedient of stopping the clock.

A filibuster, starting in the senate over the "oil scandal" report and ending with a protest of western senators against dropping a Nevada reclamation project from the reclamation bill, hitched to the deficiency measure as a rider, was responsible.

An effort was made to rush through a resolution during the last ten minutes which would have appropriated $131,000,000 for the bonus payments independently of the deficiency bill.

The house passed the resolution in less than ninety seconds, but action on it was blocked in the senate.

The insurgent farm bloc also was blocked in a last-minute attempt to force through the 35 cents per bushel export wheat bounty.

The Walsh report denouncing the naval oil leases as corrupt and illegal failed of approval, chiefly because of a three-hour speech by Senator Spencer of Missoure.

The $150,000,000 naval reconditioning bill, which had passed both houses, was held up by a last-minute objection from King of Utah, a "small navy" man.

Pittman of Nevada, held the floor to the last and although every parliamentary effort was made to get him off his feet none of them were successful. He objected to both the deficiency bill and the separate bonus resolution.

At three minutes of 7 the clerk of the house brought over a resolution authorizing the bonus appropriation as a separate measure.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, asked unanimous consent that the resolution be adopted by the senate.

Objections were immediately made by Borah of Idaho. "If you're not going to enact relief for our poor, suffering people out west, you are certainly not going to pass any more tax burdens," he said.

Senator Reed, Missouri, then obtained recognition and moved that the senate concur in the house resolution. Borah jumped up again.

It was one minute to 7 and Borah rustled with papers on his desk, preparing to speak.

Pittman called for the attention of the chair and in the confusion which followed President Cummins bound down his gavel and announced that the senate was automatically adjourned under the resolution adopted earlier in the week.

The final scenes were so disorderly that at one time Robinson appealed to the chair to have the sergeant-at-arms clear the isles, which were jammed with clamoring senators and members from the house, who had heard of the senate filibuster and had come over to the chamber.

The chief item adopted during the closing hours was a resolution which will provide for investigation by a special senate committee during the summer of contributions and expenditures of both Republican and Democratic campaign committees.

The last deficiency conference report, with the reclamation bill tacked on, was blocked temporarily in the senate by farm bloc members, who objected to its immediate consideration.

The house receded from its disagreement to the report of a few minutes previously.

In the final moments before the house adjourned, Republican Leader Longworth bitterly denounced the senate's refusal to pass either the deficiency appropriation bill or the special bonus resolution.

"A successful and useful session of congress has been marred at the last moment by the refusal of the other body to pass the great deficiency bill which provided among other things funds to pay the soldiers' bonus," said Longworth.

"The bill failed through the selfishness of a very few interested in the reclamation projects, which had no merit. Not only did they kill that bill, but they declined to act on the joint resolution just passed by the house which at any rate would have provided for the bonus."

Failure of the bonus appropriations will act chiefly to hamper the clerical preparations for payment. Actual funds for payment can be appropriated at the December session of congress in time, as payments are not scheduled to begin until after the first of the year.

The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and green, the class colors. Dancing was the amusement of the evening.

Frank Chabplin, of Bremerton, Wash., Frank Heffling, of San Jose, Fred Baker, of Los Gatos, Rollin Shorrocks and Jack Jansee, of Watsonville. COMMUNITY PICNIC ENJOYABLE TREAT

Wednesday, June 11th, was an ideal day for the annual picnic held under the auspices of the Campbell Union Grammar School at Alum Rock Park.

Transportation was furnished for all. The loaded busses and trucks with the children giving their spirited school yells and songs attracted considerable attention all along the way. "We're from Campbell, that's enough", was the greeting given to every busy corner passed in San Jose.

Many families went in their own machines so that by lunch time an immense gathering was ready to sit down to the tables together. At lunch the trustees of the school furnished an ice cream treat, as has been their custom for the past few years.

In the afternoon, races and contests were held which afforded much amusement to both the contestants and onlookers. Appropriate prizes were given to the winners of each race or contest. These prizes were donated by the members of the Parent-Teachers' Association. The winners were as follows:

Dashes.

Low First: Lily Kimura, Leo Noftz.

High First: Emma Vierra, Homer Hyde.

Low Second: Frances Chesney, Joe Shannia.

Low Seventh: Grace Amato.

After the races another treat of sherbet was served by the trustees to two seemingly endless lines until it was all served. Then the conveyances were filled with the tired, contented loads and all arrived home proclaiming this the best picnic ever held.

P.T.A. IN FINAL SESSION

The High School P. T. A. held on informal, out of door meeting Tuesday afternoon and wound up its business for the year. Interesting reports were read from the membership chairman, the treasurer and other departments.

The chief activities for the year have been the reception to parents and faculty on October 25, and the making possible of our community to hear Edmund Vance Cooke, who talked to the school and lectured in the evening of November 15.

A very generous beginning has been made in providing dishes and kitchen equipment for the gymnasium and a paper drive was sponsored which netted $73 toward the boys' base ball suits. Several other activities aided the social or other phases of school life.

The great handicap to the work of the organization is the very small active membership. If all the mothers of students in the school would come out and lend their support and co-operation the benefit to pupils, teachers and parents would be astounding.

"GRAMP" HONORED

Copies of the annual Senior Oriole were issued to subscribers Tuesday evening at the class night exercises. This years book is dedicated to James A. Fablinger, for a number of years the highly esteemed custodian of the high school building and grounds.

Rare indeed is the school privileged to have in charge a man of the sterling character and fine mentality of Mr. Fablinger, whose influence from every point of view on the lives and characters of the students is of the best. The dedication reads:

To James Fablinger.

We, the students of Campbell Union High School respectfully dedicate this issue of The Oriole, in appreciation of his faithful service, his never failing courtesy and kindliness.

ARTISTIC EXHIBIT

In the rooms of the High School Annex the work of the Art and Sewing classes was on display Tuesday and Wednesday and shows some very fine results. Creditable alike to both students and instructors.

The sewing is in two groups, the first and second year work. Class one includes underwear and clothes of cotton materials, while the second year's work is of varied materials, wool, silk, cotton, a made over garment and a hat. The results are very good indeed and Miss Gardner is deserving of much credit for the careful work done.

The art students had exhibits of basket work, trays, leather desk sets, parchment lamp shades, and drawings of all kinds. Miss Johnson is very successful in getting good and artistic work from her pupils, as this display bears evidence.

G. E. Farley took his family to Twin Lakes Sunday where they have rented the C. M. Smith cottage for four months.

CLASS NIGHT JINKS

The staid (?) and dignified (?) Seniors of the C. U. H. S. entertained their relatives and friends Tuesday evening with the annual Class Night observance.

The Class Prophecy took the form of a one act play staged on Campbell avenue on Old Settler's Day, 1944. The members of the class enter in various guises indicative of their varied positions in life at that time, most of them creating much amusement.

The time honored "Then and Now" views of the class and faculty pictures is always enjoyed. This was followed by the Class History read by Sam Reed. There are now thirty-eight members of twenty entered as Freshmen. The resume of their activities shows a liberal participation in all phases of school life—dramatics, musical, athletic and social.

Gayno Eddleman read the Will, by which the on coming students and some of the faculty are greatly enriched by bequests of various kinds, notably physical characteristics or social advantages. Apparently but few felt that there was mentality to spare.

The gift of the class, a clock for the gymnasium, was presented by the president, Gayno Eddlemon, and received on behalf of the school by James Hogan, president of the Junior class.

The program closed with an ensemble singing of the class song, and another interesting event of the school year is now history.

Next Sunday, June 15, is Father's Day. We have all grown familiar with the observance of Mother's Day which has been in vogue for several years now, but Father's Day is a more recent institution but just as fitting. Indeed, father is more apt to be relegated to second place in the thoughts of the children, than mother, who is constantly with them. Let's all give Dad his due and observe this day which has been set aside in his honor.

GROUP LOYALTY VS. COMMUNITY LOYALTY

Group loyalty has its benefits. No one will deny this.

Organizations have sprung up, especially in recent years, whose objects are expressed in concrete terms of helpful and material service to the communities in which they function. They are (sometimes unconsciously) reaching out for the ideal—grasping for the words and the work to express the instinct for service that is within them and that gave life to their own formation. Sometimes their endeavors are thwarted, sometimes their ambitions are stifled: but that does not prove the futility of their hopes nor the uselessness of their efforts. But groups and organizations—tending rather to separate a community than unite it—have lead people more or less into group or mass thinking instead of individual expression.

The group devotee, when thinking of a community problem naturally wonders what his group thinks about it. In this, to some extent, though not wholly, he has lost himself. The group loyalty is asserting itself. He is not wholly self-assertive; he is thinking en masse. He is answering the siren call of a small group consciousness, and his answer paraphrases the memorable, "My group! May it ever be right. But right or wrong, my group!"

Perhaps his group is right. We shall not argue that. The question is—if his group is right—how shall it be the medium through which to apply its righteousness to the whole community? What per cent of the total population of the community does his group reach or touch? What are the racial, social, industrial, political, or religious limitations to its scope of action? These questions certainly must be answered in order to arrive at any definite conclusion as to the degree of usefulness of any certain group as a medium or agency for community service.

We are not seeking to discredit or flout any organized activity. On the contrary, we are seeking to uphold its doctrine, for group activity is necessary and quite wholesome to society. Specialized groups can and do attain definite objects; they arouse a positive community loyalty, and engender a spirit of genuine patriotism, and the group idea of service to one's community is well worth the efforts put forth for its prepetuation. Our purpose is to ever keep before us a community loyalty which sometimes should be larger in its concept than that of our own particular group.

WHAT CAN YOU UNCOVER?

The other day a man found a bottle of rare old wine while cutting some weeds. This ought to make us all dig in. We never know what the morrow will bring. It's up to us to bring home the bacon ourselves. Too many people wait for something to turn up. The thing to do is to go out and turn up something yourself. The world owes us a living all right, but we must pay back the world in honest work. Nearly all the treasures of this earth have been dug up or discovered by patient effort and perseverence. A gambler may make money by chance, but he loses it more easily than he makes it, and the regret of it all causes him to lose his self respect and his ability to give value received for his future efforts. It is in our ability to seek the choice blessings of life by hard work and honest endeavor, and that is what the world expects of us.

National florists' motto is "Say It With Flowers." God has been trying to say it with flowers, and trees and birds and oceans and sunsets, ever since time began, but the trouble is we haven't been close enough to Nature to hear Him.

This fall the southern states will make plea for tourists. They will point out that even a bird has sense enough to go south for the winter.

Man in Santa Monica, California, is arrested for flying an airplane while intoxicated. We would have to be intoxicated even to get into one.

Those Russians who wouldn't let the flyers land were probably afraid they would miss getting hit by a close shave.

The round the world flyers say it is impracticable to go to Siberia by way of Alaska. Whoever said they wanted to go to Siberia anyway?

A lot of us ought to go to some other town a while so we'd appreciate our own.

The hand that turns the pages of good books rules the world.

DON'T BE bashful about bringing coupons for goods. For instance, there are the coupons that entitle the holders to free cakes of CREME OIL SOAP. A representative of Peet Brothers left a coupon at every house in town last week, but many folks haven't asked for their free soap yet. Bring the coupons along. They are just as profitable to us as a sale.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICES BY REV. FARR

Sunday evening the annual Baccalaureate services for the graduating class of the Campbell High School were held in the Congregational church.

The class colors of pink and green were carried out in an attractive arrangement of trailing sprays of Dorothy Perkins roses.

To the strains of the processional played by Msis Irma Young, the large class advanced up the center aisle, followed by the members of the faculty.

Mr. T. A. Cutting, in the absence of Rev. Eckles, assisted Rev. F. C. Farr in the opening service. Following an anthem by the choir, Mr. Farr read for his scripture selection from I Corinthians, Chapter 2, choosing as his text part of verses 9 and 10. He quoted also Jas. 4:17 which tells what this "greater" wisdom is.

His sermon was very fitting and pointed out clearly to the young people the sources of wisdom and knowledge not derived from school and other educational texts, and the effect upon life and character of this wisdom.

No one present could help but be benefited by the service, and there was much to remain with the young people as they journey on out into the world.

CLUB ENJOYS TALK

The closing program for this club year of the Country Woman's Club was held Monday afternoon in the Community room.

A wonderful basket of flowers arranged French style, adorned the table, the handiwork of Mrs. Walter Stray. In a way they were a key note of the talk on colors and the future of colors in the field of decorative art as told by Mrs. Higbie in her account of visits to the textile and wall paper exhibits in New York.

In her customary delightful way, with personal comment and incidents, Mrs. Higbie brought to the members and guests present a report of her winter spent in the country's metropolis, where she effectively studied from all angles whatever would be of value in her own line of interior decorating, visited markets for articles for a shop she is establishing, and saw and heard many of the new plays and operas. It proved a most interesting afternoon and seemed to bring the national market to our door.

The new clock for the mantel recess in the social room of the library, which Mrs. Higbie purchased, was displayed for the first time and was greatly admired.

At this time Mrs. Higbie presented to the club a beautiful statuette, a replica of Rosa Bonaheur's crouching lion, in bronze effect, which she also got in New York. It is very effective and adds greatly to the beauty of the mantel.

Mrs. Ellen R. Smith, the new president, read the names of the program committee: Mrs. Effie Hubbell, Mrs. Robert Parkhill, Mrs. H. P. Bean, Mrs. Worthin Grattan, Mrs. G. E. Stallman.

The automobiles driven by Wayne Davis and Jos. Souto collided at the corner of Central avenue and Minna St. last Friday evening and were quite badly damaged but the occupants very fortunately escaped without injury.

"Can't Afford to Paint."

The man who says that, forgets that painting properly done is economy, and the fact is he can't afford NOT to paint.

How often you require to paint is largely dependent upon the paint you use.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS

out last others. They are the most economical paints you can use, because they cover most and wear longest. Add to this their good appearance, and you have perfect paints—The Sherwin-Williams Paints.

They are made for many different kinds of painting. Whatever it is you want to paint—a house, or anything in or out of the house—we make the right paint for that particular purpose—not one slap-dash mixture for all.

CAMPBELL ALUMNI!

Saturday, June 14, 1924, at eight o'clock in the Saratoga Club House, the Annual Alumni Reception will be given in honor of the class of 1924. Also, we hope to, and expect to see all the faculty in attendance at this time.

Mah Jongg, musical selections and dancing will be the chief numbers on the program.

However, members of the C. U. H. S. Alumni, this affair will not be a success unless all of us attend, unless all dues are paid — this done, an enjoyable evening will be spent by all.

If you are not acquainted with the seniors of 1924, Saturday evening will be your last chance to know them as a class.

Let us pull together, now, and in the future and make the C. U. H. S. Alumni Association an organization worth our membership.

Come and sign our unique registration book and bring that old Campbell High spirit with you.
